Dear Sir/Madam

Strategies for accessible, effective and innovative education, Quality Assurance in Education, Technical and vocational Educational and training to achieve access for all, learning opportunities throughout life, and high quality , relevant and effective programmes; these are just some of the themes that are topping the ICT-Learn2007 forum's agenda , and will be explored at Sixth International Internet Education conference this September in Cairo, Egypt. How to exploit technology or hybrid delivery strategies to provide new ways of learning? What kind of Pedagogical implications of electronic delivery of education? What are the leveraging technology to deliver professional development opportunities?

Under the theme of -“ Learning Anytime . Anywhere”, which is echoed throughout the event, the conference will focus on all the key areas driving the ICT in Education. It will feature a broad range of high-level speakers, drawn from university, industry as well as government.

The forum will be held Under the Auspices of H.E. Dr. Ahmed Nazif, Prim minister of Egypt, and will bring key industry figures together with professors and government representatives, to examine the technologies and policies driving growth in Education.

Please find attached our call of papers. Forum registration is now available online at : www.distant-learning.net .
