

Collaborative Creation of Knowledge

Modern pedagogical thinking places a higher emphasis on skills such as research, collaboration, and creation than on memorization and recollection.

Innovations should then help to create inclusive, pro-poor, knowledge societies.

Such educational concepts find resonance with the notion of user-generated content – basically, the foundation of the whole Web 2.0 movement.